A3D CEO Rebekah Letheby said: “Over the last 12 months, we have shifted our focus to markets where opportunities for additive manufacturing are most prolific and short term: and that is Defence. We are excited by recent Federal Government announcements on future Defence spending and we are positioning A3D to take advantage of this. With a lean cost control strategy, the capital we are raising will permit us to complete testwork of our Defence/Aerospace focused turbine project, while delivering the AL250 printer and MCP prototypes.

Looking forward, the team and I will be focused on building out the current exciting opportunities, and I look forward to updating shareholders on these projects.”
